Woman victim of violence

JEFF CUMMINGS jeff.cummings@metronews.ca

A 20-year-old Hobbema woman is dead after a bullet came through a wall of her home late Saturday night — another act of gang violence, police say, in the troubled central Alberta area.

Cpl. Darrel Bruno with the Hobbema RCMP said the woman was airlifted to an Edmonton hospital where she was pro-nounced dead.

"This is definitely a tragedy," said great Bruno.

"When something like this happens, when an innocent person becomes victimized, it's a great tragedy"

The woman was fatally shot in the same Samson townsite house where police found a man who had his arm grazed by a bullet Saturday night, say Mounties. He didn't require medical attention.

And police also responded to a shooting 10 before minutes woman's death on the nearby Ermineskin Re-serve where two men, a 20-year-old and a 24-yearold, were arrested. Mounties say they also recovered a shotgun at the scene.

нот! нот! нот! Edmonton continues to swelter under an August heatwave and today should mark another foray into the 30 C territory.

It won't hit the 36 C mark as some had been predicting says Environment Canada but authorities warn those susceptible to be careful.

Stuart McKay, a lead meteorologist with Environment Canada, says today will still be a scorcher at 32'C.

"It's a little warmer than average, obviously, but not unusual that we would get nice, sunny, dry weather like this," McKay.

Those looking for a break from the heat will have to wait until Wednesday as temperauntil tures will get up to 20'C, savs Environment Canada. Rain and much cooler temperatures are expected for Thursday.

Fatal shots linked to hall party

AFTER-HOURS Homicide detectives spent much of yesterday interviewing a number of people at an inner-city after-hours hall party vesterday where they believe a man in his mid-20s was fatally attacked.

The man was brought to hospital where he later died; just as police were responding to a gun complaint at the Canadian Native Friendship Centre at 4:44 a.m.

Police say witnesses heard several gunshots at the hall on 112 Avenue and 101

Street and investigators believe the man was at the party in the hall before he was fatally shot.

This is Edmonton's 18th homicide of the year. Twenty homicides were reported around the same time last year.

Tories weak on health, environment, polls find

The federal government is underperforming on two of Canadians' top three priorities, according to internal government polling that could have implications for any fall election campaign.

The Conservative government is underwhelming the country on its management of health care and its attempt to fight climate change, according to a survey conducted this summer by the Privy Council Office, the senior advisory team to Prime Minister Stephen Harper and his cabinet.

But the Tories score better on their handling of the economy - an issue the government hopes to use against Liberal Leader Stéphane Dion in an election.

Anticipation of a fall campaign has spiked since Harper said last week he have to decide "in next the while" whether Parliament's work can Harper continue or if it should be cut short with an election call.

If a vote is called, Canadians will face a choice between the Liberal environment plan — the centre-piece of Dion's platform and Harper's position that he has kept a steady hand on the economy.
The poll of 4,000 Canadians conducted in mid-June and released last week shows the economy and health care, followed closely by the environment, were the country's primary concerns.

Forty-eight per cent of respondents said the Tories had done a poor job "fixing climate change" and 43 per cent say they have done a poor job on health care.

The latter is a notoriously difficult area to garner positive ratings, partly because of the complexity of the problems and partly because provinces have primary responsibility for the delivery of health serv-

Russia to withdraw forces

Russia announced it would begin withdrawing forces from Georgia today after a war that dealt a humiliating blow to the Black Sea state.

Georgian President Mikheil Saakashvili called for international monitoring of the pullout.

"I think the world should watch," he told a news conference with German Chancellor Angela Merkel in Tbilisi. Merkel said the world would be watching for Russia to withdraw quickly under the terms of a six-point peace plan brokered by France.

U.S. Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice urged Russian President Dmitry Medvedev to withdraw troops quickly. "The word of the Russian president needs to be upheld by his forces or people are going to begin to wonder if Russia can be trusted," she told NBC.

Moscow has given no firm deadline for its complete withdrawal.

The 10-day confrontation killed around 200 Georgians, dealt a crushing blow to the country's military, damaged its economy, disrupted road and rail links and drew criticism in the West of Saakashvili's handling of the crisis.

Russia argued it was justified in intervening to protect South Ossetians, but Moscow also suffered losses, both human and economic. The campaign sent Russian stocks tumbling to their lowest in nearly two years and worried foreign investors.

Talks are under way to establish international agreement on a peacekeeping force, which seems likely to include a large Russian contingent.

The country didn't have oil reserves or large rivers for hydroelectric projects and so was generating electricity with nuclear and coal plants. He realized that this made Germany vulnerable to the vagaries of geopolitics and that these were not sustainable forms of energy.

Dr. Scheer was able to introduce an innovative plan, a feed-in tariff, which commits the country to accept all renewable energy (primarily wind and solar) onto the grid and to guarantee a premium price for that energy for 20 years. That provided a huge incentive for individuals or co-ops to build turbines and install solar panels because banks would not hesitate to provide loans given those conditions

As a recent article in the Globe and Mail noted, the feed-in tariff, beyond giving Germany more than 20,000 megawatts of clean energy, has also created new economic opportunities. The renewable-energy sector now "generates about $240-billion in annual revenues and employs a quarter-million Germans. Germany's wind industry created 8,000 jobs in 2007 alone, and one recent study suggested that the renewable sector could provide more work than the auto industry (currently the nation's biggest employer) by 2020."

Many people have been calling for a switch to re-newable energy. Nobel laureate and former U.S. vicepresident Al Gore has called on the U.S. to switch to 100 per cent renewable energy within 10 years. In response, we've heard the same old tune from a chorus of stuck-in-the-oil naysayers. Someone should introduce them to Hermann Scheer.

Stauffer-Phillips a winning pairing

While it doesn't register up there with the acquisitions of Eric Cole or Lubomir Visnovsky, the Edmonton Oilers made a ripple in the local radio market Friday by announcing they've inked Bob Stauffer to work alongside HHOF play-by-play man Rod Phillips.

After the Oilers bounced Morley Scott late Wednesday, it didn't even take 48 hours for them to fill the analyst's spot on rights holder 630CHED with Stauffer, who'd been hauling in the biggest numbers at rival TEAM 1260 with his Total Sports afternoon show.

Stauffer's best-known for calling it like he sees it — he's been one of the most vocal and credible critics of the Oilers in five years on 1260 — but he's earned his wings in the booth as the play-by-play man for University of Alberta hockey and football.

With Phillips, who'll turn 67 in September, back for at least one more season, Stauffer will have to wait to get a crack at playby-play, but my take is they'll be a very dynamic tandem as long as they're together.

Phillips' trademark is his passion for the game. At times, he's more critical than a lot of "home" broadcasters are, which is very refreshing. Stauffer is much the same — although it goes without saying fans won't be hearing daily rants about Craig MacTavish's coaching style once his cheque starts arriving with an Oilers' logo on it in September.

It'll obviously take awhile for Phillips and Stauffer to find their comfort zones and a fit with each other, but they got together Saturday and talked for the first time since the change was made.

RAY RED HOT

Even without injured Jason Tucker in his arsenal, Eskimos' quarterback Ricky Ray is lighting it up and battling it out with Montreal's Anthony Calvillo atop CFL passing stats.

With seven games in the books, the Esks are 4-3 and Ray has already passed for 2,389 yards and 12 touchdowns with a completion percentage of 66.3. He's averaging 341 yards a game and has tossed just six picks.

Projected over 11 more games, starting against the Saskatchewan Roughriders Thursday, and Ray could hit 6,000 passing yards for the first time in his sixyear career. His high is 5,510, in 2005.

The Esks could have three receivers with 1,000 yards in 2008. Rookie Kelly Campbell has 24 catches for 501 yards. Kamau Peterson has 29 for 443 and Fred Stamps has 27 for 398.

IT SAYS HERE ... while some fans assume Scott will move to Sportsnet to fill the analyst's void left by Ray Ferraro's departure to TSN, I'm not so sure he's even on a shortlist of candidates for the job ... could the position in the TV booth come down to former Oiler tough guys Marty McSorley and Louie DeBrusk?

Breaking down poverty's walls

Grea Overholt wants to prove that raising marks back home can lead to raising roofs in the third world.

Overholt is the executive director of Students Offering Support (SOS), a nonprofit organization which offers study sessions to Canadian students for a $20 donation fee and then uses the money to send volunteers abroad to build schools and improve the lives of kids living in poverty.

Overholt, a 23-year-old business and computer science major at Wilfred Laurier University, launched SOS officially in 2006 and already in its first year the organization raised $65,000. Most of the money was used to fly a team of 20 volunteers down to Belize last August to build a modern school facility complete with electricity, running water and a modern washroom for 100 boys and girls in the town of Calla Creek. The rest was put into helping build another school in Jamaica through a different charity organization there. To date SOS has raised nearly $120,000 and Overholt hopes it will be able to raise half a million dollars by the end of 2010.

Overholt's passion for helping to build schools for underprivileged kids comes from his own philosophy about the importance of education in stopping the cycle of poverty.

"Education, in my mind, is the number one way to break poverty. It is the most efficient way to provide children with choices they can make with their lives and not be slaves to poverty. I feel that it's the best way we can help them to lift themselves up," Overholt

SOS started at Laurier and has been growing since, with a second chapter in Trent University and nine new chapters expected by September including ones at Queen's University, the University of Regina and McGill University.

Laurier business student Katie Sin, 22, heard SOS was planning a trip to Belize last summer and decided she wanted to get involved. She flew down with 19 SOS volunteers to help build a school for underprivileged kids in the Calla Creek region.

For Sin, the best part was seeing the great response from the kids at seeing their new school go up, complete with electricity.

"Just seeing the difference that you make and seeing kids' faces light up - it was great to see that. It shows what a difference 20 students from Canada can make," Sin said.

For Overholt, the success of the program has been a

It was opening day for the Toronto Blue Jays baseball team and the box and the stadium were packed. Stevens pulled out his brand new laptop, hooked up his modem and recorded in painstaking detail every pitch of the game. Every ball, strike and foul went into his computer and travelled electronically to the offices of Total Sports to be printed in various publications and eventually online.

Stevens, now 44, began his part-time job as a stat stringer in a less glamorous form about three years before. In the early 1990s, Stevens would buy a statistics-laden program from the same guy outside SkyDome when he attended games and the two would chat about baseball and numbers - an aspect only a few people were into at the time. Stevens was one of them: He lives in Dundas, Ont., and works at nearby McMaster University as an accountant

"Do you have any interest in doing some stat keeping?" the guy asked him one day. Not long after, Stevens found himself sitting in front of his TV with a scorecard and writing down every play. He'd fax the finished card at the end of the game to a company called The Baseball Workshop and earned $10 for his troubles

When Total Sports took over the stringer network, Stevens got the press pass and laptop, but also more money and some legitimacy. The job got even more official when Major League Baseball itself hired the stringers in 2001.

Now, Stevens' play-byplay stats, including details of where balls are hit into the field, get uploaded in real time to mlb.com. At the end of the game, he makes sure his numbers jive with those of the official scorer, and then his stats become the official record of the game. Stevens works about 30 games a season in the park (two other stringers fill out the rest of the schedule) and anoth-

Leaked memo causes stir

THIEVES LIKE US: Nikki Finke. the insider's insider on Hollywood's backroom dealings, leaked an ABC memo last week that allegedly has an executive vice-president advising anyone who wants a producer's credit on an ABC show to keep their eye out for foreign productions whose premise is vague enough to warrant ripping off without bothering to get permission or contracts. Needless to say, it's set off a little bit of a brush fire in a town where that sort of thing can result in whole suburbs reduced to ashes.

"As I'm sure you're all aware, foreign formats have increased in popularity as the basis for US television development and production," wrote one Howard M. Davine, in a June 24 memo sent to "term deal executive producers" working for the network. Davine went on to detail how buying foreign shows for U.S. adaptation seems like a sweet deal at first, but the inconvenient foreigners who came up with the original idea have this unfortunate tendency to want credit and, horrors, even payment for their work.

"If you or your own have come across an existing foreign TV project that you feel is something you'd like to explore adapting for the US market," concluded Davine, "again, please first discuss the opportunity with (ABC Studios) Creative Affairs to give us the same opportunity to independently evaluate whether a license of the underlying property is warranted."

In other words, don't say a thing until we've had a chance to run it by the lawyers, and if we can change a character or a setting here and there, we can call it our own damned idea, and no one will be the wiser.

So the folks behind Ugly Betty would have done themselves a greater service if, after watching a few episodes of Yo Soy Betty La Fea, the Colombian telenovela, they should have brainstormed with a few of the folks in legal and, say, changed Betty to Dorothy, and made her, say, really tall and not homely. Change the setting to a newspaper from a fashion house and it's Ferraris all around by the time the pilot airs.

The Europe-based Format Recognition and Protection Association — Frapa for short — responded quickly, demanding ABC repudiate Davine's memo, and adding that they'd be fighting the network as well as Disney, its corporate parent, on behalf of the international producers it represents.

"If ABC and Disney refuse to repudiate the contents of the Davine memo," Fox Reality president and Frapa founder David Lyle told the Guardian, "then producers in both the US and around the world might note their silence and help themselves to the 'underlying premise' of Hannah Montana."

Divine inspiration

To hear the retro bent of Divine Brown's new album, is to imagine the singer steeped in vintage Motown and Stax during it's making.

"If I wanted to write something that had, say, a '50s style to it — my dad used to listen to a lot of Skeeter Davis — I remember the feeling that I got when I listened to that stuff, so I'd try to write based on the emotion of what I'd felt."

Add that to her other strengths — five-octave pipes, songwriter, bass player, actor — since The Love Chronicles, out tomorrow, cuts a swath through the last 50 years of popular music. And lest one think Brown is following the throwback footsteps of Amy Winehouse, Duffy or Jully Black, she's quick to point out that her 2005 Juno-nominated self-titled debut was steeped in classic soul and R&B, and sold 70,000 copies on the strength of lead single Old Skool Love.

"It's paying homage, but it happens naturally, because I have always been an artist who writes from where my roots lie," she said, running down a list of mentors that begins with Stevie Wonder, Joni Mitchell and Chaka Khan.

That's Aggie and Kim's mission in "A Frat-Tastic Disaster," as they show members of a fraternity how to transform their chapter house from grime scene to pristine. 11 PM on W

Jennifer Love-Hewitt has illustrated just how much power we who turn to the last page of the Metro have, and by that I'm guessing I mean every single one of you. She shed 18 lbs. after being hurt by gossip reports ridiculing her for having become too heavy. We laughed, she shrank. Not because I care about either one of them, but because I like it when American publications identify people as "ice hockey players." Like, as opposed to what, tonsil hockey? If Hilary plays her cards right, she could become the next Janet Jones-Gretzky, and be named in a sports gambling ring investigation.
